Scappoose School Notes.

Nature study, especially of birds, in the Scappoose school has received a splendid impetus from the Bird-House contest, which was concluded last Friday evening. Prizes were awarded in three divisions as follows: First division, first prize, Armond Duncan; second prize, Manfred Englehart. Second division, first prize, Aury Bennet; second prize, Guy Metcalfe. Third division, first prize, Arthur Neuman; second prize, Lida Saxton.

There were 30 birdhouses in all, many of which were examples of highest skill in workmanship and design. Mr. Dodson, who had charge of the contest, has every reason for gratification over the result and the enthusiasm displayed. There were large houses and small houses, square houses and round houses; there were houses made of bark and houses made of poles, as well as board houses and shingle houses. The houses altogether are a piece of constructive school work which it would be difficult to surpass. These houses will be put out "To Let" immediately, as the birds constituting the spring migration are already beginning to arrive.

An assembly of the entire school was called for the purpose of putting a ray of light in the minds of the students on the subject of "Pigs." Local men, Dr. Blatchford, Mr. Niblock and L. G. Smith, were present, very beneficial talks being delivered by all three. Mr. Niblock placed the patriotic necessity of raising pigs very clearly and squarely before our minds. Mr. Blatchford named and described the better kinds of pigs, and following this Mr. Smith continued with the subject of the most economical means and ways of raising the best grades of pigs, and it was concisely and effectively explained to us. So, as great interest is brewing about the campaign to get each person to raise one or more pigs, there is no reason why we should not raise healthy, fat pigs.

WARREN

The Misses Fannie Cooper and Nora Larson spent the week end in Portland, combining business with pleasure.

There is a movement on foot to have the St. Helens Lumber Company extend their electric service from the "little mill" to Warren, and give the residents a supply of juice for lights and power. Many of the farmers close in are in favor of the project.

The ladies of the Red Cross, under the supervision of Mrs. P. M. Hoyt, gave a "community sing" and pie social last Friday evening which was exceptionally well attended and proved a leading social event at Warren. Patriotic songs were rendered by the different members of the Red Cross, and the orchestra, headed by F. A. Hoyt, gave an exceptionally nice program of national airs.

Col. W. J. Fullerton gave a talk on the objects and aims of the Red Cross and appealed to all present to aid in an object so worthy. A candy booth, presided over by four of Warren's society ladies, was an attractive feature. The candy was home made and the girls did a good business selling all their product. When the refreshments were all served a number of pies were left, which were auctioned, bringing from 50 cents to $2.75. Mrs. Hazen's pie took the lead, it being decorated with a red cross on the crust. The entire proceeds were about $60.

The first lesson in judging of hogs was held by the "pig club boys" last Tuesday. They were under the supervision of County Agent Howard and "Doc Allen" of the O. A. C. The demonstration was held at the Oregon Berkshire ranch, and proved to the boys of whom sixteen were present, a very entertaining event. Hogs were exhibited and the good and inferior points were discussed and pointed out. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hyskell entertained the guests with grape juice and cake.

Corporal Edward R. Hyskell arrived Sunday from Camp Lewis, and spent the day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hyskell. Army life agrees with "Ned," and he speaks in high terms of the usage accorded the soldier boys.

The Australian wheat crop for the season of 1917-18 is estimated at 114,020,000 bushels, compared with last year's yield of 152,565,000. The 25 per cent decrease is a result of reduced acreage and unfavorable conditions.
